DIGITAL PROJECTS

- 2024 Invisible no more. Stephen, L., G. Pérez Báez, K. Thornhill and Z. Sui. Website displaying the results of the research project entitled Mapping Mesoamerican Indigenous Languages and Communities in Oregon: Tools for CBO Advocacy and Service Delivery. <https://invisiblenomore.uoregon.edu/>.
- Website began as open access but is currently under a password to protect the communities featured given the letter that circulated in Oregon calling for the persecution of people of color, and the executive order Protecting the American People against Invasion accusing many “aliens” of presenting “significant threats to national security and public safety, committing vile and heinous acts”, and ordering “the efficient and expedited removal of aliens from the United States”.
- 2020 Indigenous Languages Digital Archive (ILDA), National Breath of Life, <https://mc.miamioh.edu/nbol/ilda-overview>. Web-based archive software suite designed to support tribal efforts in archives-based language revitalization. Hosted by Miami University, ILDA allows for the organization, storage, retrieval, and analysis of digitized archival linguistic materials, and associated data, for the purpose of informing language revitalization and educational efforts by tribal communities. Suite includes a community-facing dictionary app. Rollout included online training modules, training workshops, an ongoing apprenticeship program and a new fellowship program launched in 2025.
